WEST VIRGINIA CODE: §29-12-11

§29-12-11. Interpretation and purpose; Constitutionality.

The provisions of this article are considered remedial and shall be liberally construed and interpreted so as to effect and accomplish the general purposes and objectives hereof. In the event any part or provision of the article be held to be unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, such holding and decision of the court shall not affect the validity and Constitutionality of the remaining parts and provisions of the article.
