1 AN ACT to amend and reenact §18B-3C-4 of the Code of West Virginia, 1931, as amended, all
2 relating to community and technical college/career and technical education consortia 3 planning districts; adding Braxton County High School as a participating institution in the 4 Southeastern District; and providing for partnerships outside designated region under 5 certain conditions.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of West Virginia:

ARTICLE 3C. COMMUNITY AND TECHNICAL COLLEGE SYSTEM.

§18B-3C-4. Community and technical college/career and technical education consortia planning districts.

1 (a) Unless otherwise designated, the presidents of the community and technical colleges
2 facilitate formation of community and technical college/career and technical education consortia
3 in the state. Each consortium includes representatives of community and technical colleges, 4 public career and technical education centers and state baccalaureate institutions offering 5 associate degrees. The consortium is responsible for carrying out the following actions:

6 (1) Completing a comprehensive assessment of the district to determine what education
7 and training programs are necessary to meet the short and long-term workforce development 8 needs of the district and to identify the high-demand, high-wage occupations within the service 9 district and develop programs of study, based on the findings, that consist of a curriculum of 10 courses leading to an industry-recognized credential, a certificate of applied science degree or an 11 associate degree;

12 (2) Coordinating efforts with regional labor market information systems to identify the 13 ongoing needs of business and industry, both current and projected, and to provide information
14 to assist in an informed program of planning and decision-making. The priority of each consortium 15 is to identify the high-demand, high-wage occupations within the service district and, in 16 conjunction with the public schools, develop integrated secondary and post-secondary programs

17 of study that lead to an industry-recognized credential, a certificate of applied science degree or 18 an associate degree;

19 (3) Developing integrated secondary and post-secondary programs of study that lead to 20 an industry-recognized credential, a certificate of applied science degree or an associate degree 21 to satisfy a workforce need as determined by the Department of Commerce. The Department of 22 Commerce shall on occasion, but at least annually, provide written notification to the State Board
23 of Education and the West Virginia Council for Community and Technical College Education a 24 determination of areas of workforce need;

25 (4) Increasing the integration of secondary and post-secondary curriculum and programs
26 that are targeted to meet regional and state labor market needs, including implementing seamless
27 programs of study, including West Virginia EDGE, Advanced Career Education, Registered 28 Apprenticeships and any program that allows students to earn college credit while they are still in 29 high school;

30 (5) Ensuring that the programs of study include coherent and rigorous content aligned 31 with challenging academic standards and relevant career and technical education content. The 32 programs shall provide for student movement through a coordinated, nonduplicative progression 33 of courses that align secondary education with community and technical college education to 34 prepare students to succeed at the community and technical college level and in high-wage, high-35 demand occupations;

36 (6) Planning and developing a unified effort between the community and technical colleges
37 and public career and technical education to meet the documented workforce development needs 38 of the district and state through individual and cooperative programs; shared facilities, faculty, 39 staff, equipment and other resources; and the development and use of distance learning and 40 other education technologies;

41 (7) Collaborating and developing jointly the collaborative programming for adults between 42 the community and technical colleges and the public career and technical centers. The focus of these collaborative efforts is the development of advanced skill programming that builds on the secondary curriculum and allows career and technical education graduates to acquire more in-depth preparation in their occupational area of interest;

(8) As a consortium, regularly reviewing and revising curricula to ensure that the work force needs are met; developing new programs and phasing out or modifying existing programs, as appropriate, to meet such needs; and streamlining procedures for designing and implementing customized training programs;

(9) Planning and implementing integrated professional development activities for secondary and post-secondary faculty, staff and administrators;

(10) Ensuring that program graduates have attained the competencies required for successful employment through the involvement of business, industry and labor in establishing student credentialing;

(11) Assessing student knowledge and skills which may be gained from multiple sources so that students gain credit toward program completion and advance more rapidly without repeating course work in which they already possess competency;

(12) Cooperating with workforce investment boards to establish one-stop-shop career centers with integrated employment and training and labor market information systems that enable job seekers to assess their skills, identify and secure needed education training, and secure employment, and that allow employers to locate available workers;

(13) Increasing the integration of adult literacy, adult basic education, federal Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act and community and technical college programs and services to expedite the transition of adults from welfare to gainful employment, including cooperating with the State Department of Education to provide adult basic education programs on each community and technical college campus in the state where developmental education services are provided; and

(14) Establishing a single point of contact for employers and potential employers to access education and training programs throughout the district.

(b) The community and technical college education consortium shall cooperate with the regional workforce investment board in the district and shall participate in any development or amendment to the regional workforce investment plan.
